

Centacare Evolve Housing Fact Sheet

Bedroom Entitlement

Lots of different sorts of people live in, or want to live in, Centacare Evolve Housing homes. The type of home you need, and the number of bedrooms, will depend on the number of people who live with you. We will look at the age and gender of your children when we are working out how many bedrooms you need. Girls and boys may need their own room as they get older.

	Household size	Number of bedrooms
Single		 1
Sharing		 1 per adult or couple
Couple		 1
Family		 2
		 3
		 4
Extended families		 1 per adult or couple
		 1 per 3 children

This table is a guide only. Housing Connect will talk to you about your needs.

The priority is to offer you a long term home

In Tasmania, there are many people waiting for housing. We will always try to offer you a home that suits your needs as you can't swap homes with another tenant, and there are requirements for eligibility that need to be met if you feel you need to move to another property.

What if my needs are different?

Some people need more or less bedrooms than others. For example, someone might need an extra room because they have a disability or medical condition. Or, they might have shared care of children. Housing Connect will work with you to assess your needs as part of their application process.

More information

Other fact sheets that might be useful:

- Applying for a home
- Offering you a home